

CALL FOR PAPERS

Special Issue on Gender Perspectives in Public Economics – 2020

It is increasingly recognized that taxes, public expenditure, and social programs affect women and men differently. This is sometimes unintended, even unexpected. Other times well-intended policies targeting women end up causing them harm. Although acknowledged, the gender impact of policy is seldom quantified, and the policy design, even when appearing gender neutral, is generally not.

We are pleased to announce the call for papers on “Gender Perspectives in Public Economics” for a special issue of Hacienda Pública Española/Review of Public Economics. We encourage submissions of papers that measure the impact of public policy by gender, or account for gender in the design of policy. Both empirical and theoretical papers are welcome. Specific topics may include, but are not restricted to

- Gender impact of public policies: Health, Education, Social Security.
- Family policies: household taxation, transfers, family and child support.
- Optimal taxation and transfer design.
- Public policy to promote gender equality and/or female empowerment.

Hacienda Pública Española/Review of Public Economics is the leading journal on Public Economics in Spain and this Special Issue edition will be under the supervision of two invited editors: Alessandra Casarico and Paola Profeta from Bocconi University. All submitted papers will be peer reviewed following a high-quality and fast referee process. The publication of the special issue is planned for 2020.

Submission instructions

Full papers should be in English and submitted electronically by 30th of June 2019 through the journal’s page in Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress) at <http://services.bepress.com/hpe> . Please, remember to select the option “Call for Papers” in the prompt for “Type of Submission.”

Alessandra Casarico
Paola Profeta
Guest Editors

Elena Del Rey
Santiago Lago-Peñas
Executive Editors