RULES CONCERNING AN OPTIONAL HOMEWORK PROPOSAL

The homework assignment IS NOT COMPULSORY but – if it is turned in by following the rules detailed below – they may give extra credit valid for one year (until the September 2017 exam session) 1.5 POINTS (out of 33). The assignment concerns a simple exercise in Excel. The assignment is composed of a number of questions to be solved independently by each student on his/her own time. However, help will be available through a tutoring system.

The points will be attributed after a rough check of completeness and reasonableness of the solution approach adopted. However, formal feedbacks will not be provided in case only partial score will be assigned. In case of offensive or completely unreasonable submissions, a penalty of -0.5 may be inflicted. This is to discourage individuals to “game” the system with blank or made-up submissions. Sketches of solutions to the homework will be made available through the e-learning system. Independently of whether a student has worked on and turned in the assignments, at least one question of the final exam will concern comments to the solutions derived to the homework questions. Submissions must be completed electronically by 11 pm midnight of the due date. The date of the e-mail system will count. NO EXCEPTIONS, NO EXCUSES (these will not be read). Late submissions will not be considered. Homework submissions are performed BY E-MAIL to mscfinance@unibocconi.it. Only homework submissions coming from official Bocconi’s e-mail addresses will be considered. It is essential that you indicate your FULL NAME AND ID NUMBER in the name of the file. Points may be deducted or the homework may be simply erased in case you fail to do so.
